responsibilities

The company is organised into 4 areas of responsibility: general management divided by region: central south and central north, with top-level cross-functions divided by field: development, social, administrative.

General Management is responsible for the portfolio of projects (staff management, local suppliers, monitoring budgets and accounts, customer relations, etc.), making use of dedicated staff: project managers and service coordinators. General Management is also responsible for employment, human resources and security.

Administrative Management is in charge of general accounting and financial functions, supervises general management, reporting systems and statistics, and centralised purchasing, carried out by the head offices in Venice and Rome.

Head of Development, a role covered by the president, has responsibility for commercial, marketing and communications, and research and development functions, as well as, through the heads of the technical divisions: museums, monuments and exhibitions, libraries, Jewish heritage, shop, protection and safety. The cross-functional offices guarantee consistent quality standards and define directions for development and market growth.

The Social Accountability and Certified Systems Office deals with the maintenance and implementation of quality certification systems (ISO 9001) through the Quality and Social Accountability office (SA 8000).
